

Stephanie Flanders

Head of Bloomberg News Economics and former BBC Economics Editor

Stephanie is one of the foremost authorities on international economics and she has the most comprehensive experience across public and private sector roles. An undeniable leader in her industry, Stephanie's keen intellect and impressive career mark her as a thoughtful, valuable and insightful speaker. An impressive keynote [on the importance of decision- making] awaits.

Speaker Bio: Stephanie Flanders was the BBC economics editor where she was named Political and Broadcast Journalist of the Year. In 2013 she took up a post as J.P. Morgan Asset Management's chief market strategist for the UK and Europe and is currently the Head of Economics for the financial, software, data, and media company, Bloomberg.

